Medemblik

- Sailing at the IJsselmeer
- Great facilities on and offshore
- Places to camp at the venue, holiday houses and hotels around

History

Medemblik West Friesland's oldest city. Lying amidst peace and quiet and expansiveness is Medemblik, the oldest city in West Friesland. The Regatta Centre and Water Sports Museum, where national and international sailing competitions are organized, add international allure to the town.

Historical and modern In the centre you will find modern and historical hand in hand. Beautiful yachts and historical ships from the brown fleet tie up in the modern harbours of the historical inner city. Sitting on one of the terraces you can enjoy all that hustle and bustle on the water while you savour a delicious drink.

Museums and castle The city has many museums; Castle Radbout, which dates back to the 13th century, occupies a prominent position. At the Baking Museum the most delicious delicacies are baked traditionally and at the Steam Mill you can learn everything about the evolution of the steam machine. Medemblik is also a stop for the Hoorn-Medemblik steam tram.

Those looking for peace and quiet can mount their bikes with a VVV cycle route in hand and make a trip over dikes, through old ribbon settlements and along traditional farmhouses. From the top of the dike you can look out across the endless IJsselmeer.

Location

Lots of sailors over the world have been racing on the IJssmeer at Medemblik. The IJssmeer used to be an inland tidal sea called the Zuiderzee until it was dammed in 1932. No salt water left since then. Flat water in a south westerly wind and steep waves in a northerly makes the IJssmeer sometimes hard to sail but generally the IJssmeer is splendid sailingwater and excellent for racing the H-Boat.

Wind Conditions

Wind conditions in Medemblik are variable and are mostly influenced by the low pressure systems coming in from the North Sea. On sunny days you can experience a nice sea breeze effect. The prevailing wind in this part of the Netherlands is West to South-West. In a given week in summer you can expect a few fresh days with big wind and a few warmer days with variable wind. The waves at the IJssel Lake are mostly short and choppy. There is no noticable current. The water is fresh.
